

OUTING CARD

Dalbergstien and Aksla

Photo: Margrethe Rabås

Photo: Margrethe Rabås

Photo: Bo Elde

Dalbergstien and Aksla - 5,4 km

This is the trip for those who have two free hours and want to see Tromsø from its best side while having a good workout. If you wish to see the variations in the city's surrounding nature, Dalbergstien - Aksla is recommended. Lush birch forests, airy mountain terrain, and urban sections! Also a super Sunday trip with kids. If you are not sufficiently impressed with the view of the little island in the mighty landscape, you can put a pit stop in the restaurant at Fjellstua. Enjoy!

 Bus 26 to «Fjellheisen». Bus 20, 24, 28 to the Ishavs Cathedral; marked «Dalbergstien».

 Paid parking at Fjellheisen's lower station

 Visible natural path with some steep and airy passages. Loop trip.

Easy

Medium

Challenging

Expert

Trail grading colours show difficulty levels. Black icon on white background is ungraded.

Dalbergstien and Aksla

Trail description

Start at the forest edge 30 metres south of the entrance to Fjellheisen. Follow the well-established natural path south. The path traverses a birch forest before it gradually rises to a steep climb. Above the tree line, the path turns north and follows the edge of the plateau to Fjellstua. If you are not fond of heights you can follow one of the parallel paths to the east. The famous stone path down from Fjellheisen is a highlight, built by sherpa from Nepal. Each and every stone is carefully positioned by the world's best path builders. A piece of art in its own right! Have a nice trip!

Nearby Outings

	Fjellheisen- Bøntuva: 4 km one way
	Kaldslettstien – Sollidalen: 1-4 km one way
	Ishavskatedralen - Tromsdalstinden: 16 km RT

Contact information

Tromsø Municipality
Park and Road
Telephone: +47 77 79 00 00
postmottak@tromso.kommune.no